Farm Bill Scuttled for Year

Sent Back to Committee by 215-205 Vote

By GEOFFREY GOULD
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's farm bill is dead. The surprise defeat of the far-reaching bill in the House Thursday night by a 215-205 vote was all the more shocking to administration leaders because up to the last minute they thought they would win.

The sudden death came at 8:47 p.m. in the tension-filled House; 48 Democrats, not all Southern conservatives by any means, helped 167 Republicans do it. Only one Republican—Rep. Phil Weaver of Nebraska—voted with 204 Democrats against scuttling the bill by sending it back to committee.

The White House immediately issued a statement saying the defeat "will cost the taxpayers of the United States at least an additional $1 billion next year and

Two-State Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is the two-state vote on the administration farm bill, sent back to the Agriculture Committee by the House Thursday, thus killing the measure.

Minnesota — Against recommitment: Blatnik, Karth, Marshall. For sending to committee: Andersen, Judd, Langen, MacGregor, Nelsen, Quie.

Wisconsin — Against recommitment: Johnson, Kastenmeier, Reiss, Zablocki. For: Byrnes, Laird, O'Konski, Thomson, Van Felt, Schadeberg. return the country to the ruinous deficit farm programs with accompanying growth in our already staggering $9 billion surplus.

"It is regrettable that the Republican members of the House, with only one exception, chose to make party issue of this matter instead of voting in the national interest. They will now have to bear the responsibility for the continuing chaos in our agricultural surplus situation."

The statement made no reference to the Democrats who voted against the bill.

The powerful American Farm Bureau Federation, which led the fight against the bill, called the House action a "victory for farmers, consumers and taxpayers," adding "the only losers were the political empire builders in Washington."

The bill would have placed mandatory acreage reductions and national marketing quotas for the first time on feed grains and wheat. These crops have contributed most to the massive surplus stocks now held by the government.

Such controls were the only hope of reducing costs of federal price support programs, backers of the measure claimed.

The Senate already has passed a bill very similar to the one snuffed out in the House. The Senate measure could be brought to the House floor if it is approved by the House Agriculture Committee. But this did not appear likely because the committee approved its own bill by a margin of only one vote.

Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee and floor chairman of the bill, indicated it was unlikely the House would act on the Senate bill.

Nor did he show any enthusiasm for a quick attempt to get present emergency feed and wheat programs extended for another year. In the absence of any legislation, the law reverts to the 1958 act of former Republican Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, which the Democrats claim is largely responsible for the present mountainous pile of surpluses.

There is no doubt the administration played every card it had to try to win passage of its bill. Capitol Hill telephones had been kept jingling with calls from the White House.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman had invested an enormous amount of time and effort to persuade his fellow Democrats to vote for the bill, and spent most of the three-day debate in an office just across a hall from the House chamber. Republicans derided his efforts as pressure tactics and arm-twisting.

2 Senators Clash With Freeman on Estes Quiz

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., invited President Kennedy today to speak out on what Mundt called an attempt by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to thwart a Senate investigation of the Billie Sol Estes case.

Mundt and Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, the two Republican members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee probing Estes' dealings with the Agriculture Department, Thursday accused Freeman of trying to intimidate them.

The two senators made public a sworn statement to subcommittee investigators from Thomas R. Hughes, Freeman's executive secretary, acknowledging that Hughes had ordered his staff to dig out of the department's files copies of all correspondence with Mundt and Curtis, but not the letters of any other Congress member.

RIVALS MEET... Republican gubernatorial candidate, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, right, shakes hands with his Democratic opponent, California Gov. Edmund G. Brown as they met face-to-face for the first time since February 1960. The meeting took place at the Associated Press News Executives Council (APNEC) at the Stanford Union on the campus of the University of Stanford, Stanford, Calif. The two candidates addressed a group of about 150 editors from throughout the state. (AP Photofax)

"I am almost certain that at the time I made the request for the correspondence I informed Secretary Freeman," Hughes' statement said.

"I felt that this material would be useful to Secretary Freeman in connection with his appearance before the subcommittee," he said.

Hughes said the idea was his own and that he was curious about the department's "experience" with the two Republican senators in connection with rapid amortization of grain elevator construction and grain storage matters.

Mundt and Curtis both said flatly they didn't believe this explanation. They said they had learned the department planned to leak out distorted versions of the correspondence to newsmen "closely affiliated with the White House."

In a joint statement they described the search for correspondence as an "attempt to intimidate the minority members" of the subcommittee, an effort to thwart the investigation, and a foredoomed move to "curry favor with the Democratic members" by not looking over their correspondence, too.

"I don't think they're going to buy them off this easily," Mundt said.

Following with a statement of his own, Freeman said there never was any intention to make public any material in the file, "but rather to review matters of concern to the senators by examining inquiries they have directed to the department."

C. Elmer Anderson, Ex-Governor, to Run for Congress

BRAINERD, Minn. (AP) — C. Elmer Anderson, governor of Minnesota from 1951 until 1955, today announced he would file for Congress from the sixth district.

Anderson was the fourth Republican to announce his candidacy in the GOP primary. The others, who announced previously, were State Reps. Aubrey Dirlam of Redwood Falls and Robert Odgaard of Princeton and a Montevideo salesman, Charles Cooper. Anderson, of Nisswa, said he will file in the secretary of state's office at 10 a.m. Monday. He made no further statement.

The 6th District GOP will hold a special convention in Willmar next Wednesday to endorse a candidate. Rep. H. Carl Anderson, veteran Republican incumbent, was endorsed at a convention several weeks ago but later announced he would not run in the GOP primary. Anderson said he would seek reelection in the November general election, running as an independent.

The former governor's announcement that he intends to file apparently means that he may bypass the Willmar convention.

Stock Market Down Again in Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, sliding for six months now, headed downward again today in heavy trading.

Early turnover was marked by large blocks of leading issues on the New York Stock Exchange. The ticker tape quickly fell behind floor transactions.

American Telephone & Telegraph fell 50 cents to $100.50 a share, approaching its 1962 low, on an exchange of 20,000 shares. U.S. Gypsum lost $3.50 to $69 on 2,000 shares, and Woolworth gave up $1.50 to $63.50 on 3,000 shares. Du Pont was down $2.12 to $70.12 a share, and Goodrich Rubber $1.37 to $46 a share.

Sen. Case of South Dakota Dead at 65

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., a 25-year veteran of Congress, died today. He was 65.

Case, born in Everly, Iowa, on Dec. 9, 1896, served seven terms in the House and two in the Senate.

The ranking Republican member of the Senate Public Works Committee, Case had long been associated with legislation concerning water conservation and the nation's highways.

He was treated at the nearby Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital in mid-March for what was described as a mild heart involvement following an earlier bout with the flu.

He was taken back by ambulance from the Capitol Thursday night and died at 9:19 a.m. (EDT) today.

Case, a former newspaper editor, raised Hereford cattle and saddle horses on his ranch near Custer in South Dakota's Black Hills. He was an expert horseman.

He moved with his parents to Sturgis, S.D., in 1909, attended high school at Sturgis and Hot Springs and held degrees from Dakota Wesleyan (Mitchell, S.D.) and Northwestern universities.

During World War I, Case served as a private in the Marine Corps and had been a captain in the Marine Reserves since 1937.

He edited newspapers in Rapid City, Hot Springs and Custer, S.D. in 1922-42, and during this time proposed the Black Hills summer White House for President Coolidge and actively promoted development of highway and natural resource potential of South Dakota.

Big 707 Burns On Guadeloupe; No Survivors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A Boeing 707 Air France liner with 108 or more persons aboard crashed today on a forested hillside of the Caribbean island of Guadeloupe.

Circling search planes reported no sign of life in the wreckage. Debris was reported to have burned.

The $5.5-million plane met disaster as it headed in for a landing before dawn at the airport of Pointe-a-Pitre on a regular flight from Paris to Santiago, Chile.

The U.S. Coast Guard said the air traffic control center at Pointe-a-Pitre Airport reported the big jet had been cleared for its final approach when its radio went dead.

A small local plane later spotted the wreckage 2 1/2 miles inland from the north coast of the Basse Terre section of Guadeloupe, the Coast Guard said.

Weather was reported clear at the time, and the pilot had radioed he was making a visual approach to the field.

The Coast Guard in New York said its information was that the plane was carrying 102 passengers and 11 crewmen. The Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington said it was told there were 103 passengers and five crewmen aboard.

However, a list announced by Air France in New York showed 10 crewmen, counting the hostesses and stewards.

The crash occurred at about 4:25 a.m. local time (3:25 a.m. EST), the hour the plane was due to land at Guadeloupe on a flight from Santa Maria, the Azores.

First word that the Air France liner was in trouble came at 6:19 a.m. (EST) when the Coast Guard received this message: "Distress, Air France Flight 117, B707, overdue..."

An all-ships distress signal was flashed to naval vessels, asking them to proceed to the area. Two Coast Guard amphibious planes and a patrol boat were dispatched from San Juan, Puerto Rico.

At 7 a.m. came word that wreckage had been spotted. The naval assistance call was canceled, but Coast Guard planes continued to sweep the area to be sure there was no wreckage at sea.

Guadeloupe is composed of two islands, Basse Terre and Grande Terre. The airfield is on Basse Terre.

Reds Building Up Opposite Quemoy

By ROY ESSOYAN

HONG KONG (AP)—Most Western intelligence sources in Hong Kong believe Red China's current military buildup opposite the Nationalist offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu is defensive. But they do not discount the possibility of a Communist attack.

These sources believe that any

Red attack would most likely be triggered by fears that President Chiang Kai-shek's regime was going to try to make good his vow to retake the Chinese mainland.

"I'd be very surprised if the Chinese Communists launched an offensive," one well-placed intelligence informant said today. "I think the chances are about 3-1 against it. But if they felt the Chinese Nationalists were about to attack, they would probably want to beat them to the punch."

Top Nationalist officials have been predicting an offensive against Red China for some time. But the possibility seems remote.

Nationalist officials in Taipei received Washington and London reports of the Red buildup with outward calm.

Justice Resigns, $6,669 Shortage In His Accounts

ST. PAUL (AP) — Joseph J. Poiris, for 25 years justice of the peace and municipal judge in Richfield, resigned Thursday after disclosure that he was $6,669 short in his accounts.

Gov. Elmer L. Anderson's office reported the resignation after a report by William P. Scott, state public examiner, had turned up the fund discrepancies.

Scott said Poiris had made full restitution.

The public examiner said copies of the report had gone, both to State Atty. Gen. Walter F. Mandile and George M. Scott, Hennepin County attorney, and that any future action in the case would rest with these officials.

The examiner said Poiris, 67, had acted as his own court clerk and had designated others in the office as deputies. He added that Poiris had admitted using the official monies for his own personal use.

ATWATER, Minn. (AP) — Neil T. Robideau, 52, Princeton, Minn., plunged 50 feet to his death late Thursday when the scaffold around a silo he was helping to construct at the Ralph Hall farm gave way.

Robideau had been employed by the Westman Silo Co., with headquarters at Princeton.

2 Boys Locked In Trunk Revived

DELAVER, Del. — Two small boys missing about 10 hours were found Thursday night in a locked trunk, abandoned between two garages not far from their homes. One was unconscious when discovered about midnight.

Mike Golder, 5, and Jimmy Hohl, 7, were rushed to Lakeland Hospital in Elkhorn where they were reported in good condition. They were held for additional examinations today.

"They were as white as paper when our men found them," said Sgt. Henry DeLap of the Delavan Police Department. "The Hohl boy was unconscious and probably wouldn't have lasted another half hour," DeLap added.

The boys were sitting knee to knee, the sergeant said, "and it appeared they just sat there and waited to be let out."

Mike is the son of Mrs. Rose Golder, Jimmy the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hohl. The boys are neighbors and playmates. They were last seen about 2 p.m. Thursday and reported missing at 7 p.m.

Delavan officers searched for two hours before calling in the Walworth County Sheriff's Department, the City Fire Department, Boy Scouts and the city Civil Dement. In all, about 100 persons joined the search.

The boys were found by city officers Harry Larson and Frank Stirmal, just as blood hounds arrived from Jefferson.

Larson and Stirmal said the trunk appeared to be very old, but its inner wooden walls had remained sound. The lid locked automatically when closed, held secure by a spring latch on one end.

The officers said the trunk appeared to be air tight, except for two small holes in the front where other locks had fallen out. The holes were about a half inch in diameter and at a level with the boys' heads, allowing them a meager supply of fresh air.

Board Approves Surfacing Job At Playgrounds

A $7,040 contract was awarded Thursday night by the Board of Education to H. J. Dunn Black Top Surfacing Co., Winona, for surfacing of the Central Elementary School playground and certain areas at the Lincoln School playground.

Dunn was the only bidder to submit a proposal on the project at the board's regular meeting earlier this month but action on an award was deferred at that time so the school administration might confer with the city engineering and street departments to determine whether part of the work might be done by city crews.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS A. L. Nelson and Paul W. Sanders, clerk and business manager of the board, met after the last board meeting with Henry Parks, chairman of the City Council's streets committee; Arthur Brom, street commissioner, and James Baird, city engineer.

The superintendent reported at last night's special school board meeting that the city officials indicated that they would be willing to have street department crews assigned to the job if possible. However, the street commissioner felt, board members were told that it would be difficult to undertake the project because of lack of time and equipment.

NELSON SAID that Baird had inspected the bid and told school officials that he considered it a favorable proposal. Dunn would do base preparation for $3,192, prime coat for $256 and apply the plant mixed bituminous surfacing for $3,592. The board had been thinking maybe city crews could do the grading and base preparation.

BAIRD WAS QUOTED as saying that under the circumstances it might be better if the board accepted the Dunn bid since the firm would be in a better position to do the entire job.

This was one of three projects on which bids had been received last meeting and held over for further study.

MOOREHEAD Machinery & Boiler Works, Minneapolis, the low bidder, received a contract for $1,717 to supply a fence for the Central Elementary playground.

This award had been held up pending outcome on the surfacing project.

DeBourgh Manufacturing Co., Minneapolis, was awarded a $5,112.92 contract to supply 163 athletic lockers at Jefferson School. Although Central Product, Minneapolis, had bid $3,907 for the lockers ($732 to be added for installation), the award was made to DeBourgh because its lockers most closely met specifications.

For a time it was thought that perhaps some of the lockers, to be used by the junior high school squads, might be bought from Cem and the remainder for the high school A and B squads from DeBourgh. The wire mesh lockers supplied by DeBourgh are now in use. Board members decided that it would be best, though, to get the matching lockers.

The purchase will make some 100 lockers now in use at Jefferson available for transfer to Senior High School when corridor remodeling, now contemplated for sometime in the future, is undertaken.

A CHANGE ORDER, reducing the contract price on a Jefferson locker room remodeling job approved earlier this month was authorized.

Originally awarded to P. Earl Schwab on a bid of $2,224, the contract called for use of structural tile. Since then the board has considered substitution of ceramic tile bonded to concrete blocks and learned that this type of construction would result in a reduction in the contract price to $1,994.

Woman, 63, Commits Suicide

INDEPENDENCE, Wis. (Special) — A 63-year-old Independence woman died of self-inflicted gunshot wounds at her home here Thursday afternoon.

According to the coroner's office, Mrs. William Fellenz shot herself with a 12-gauge shotgun in the store room at the rear of her home while her husband, Independent night patrolman, slept upstairs. Fellenz, although he heard no noise, awakened about 6:15 p.m., went downstairs and found his wife.

Fellenz called the sheriff's office at 6:15 and Dr. C. F. Meyers and Eugene Bjford, Trempealeau County sheriff, investigated. The shot went through her throat.

Board Reluctant To Negotiate on Custodian's Wage

A union request for a meeting with the Board of Education to discuss higher wage increases for members of the public schools custodial and maintenance staff Thursday night drew comments from school directors that they aren't inclined to enter into any negotiations on wage issues.

The board earlier this year granted $5 monthly wage increases to custodians and maintenance men. Responding to this action, Kenneth L. Heim, Rochester, business agent for Local 314, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, sent a letter received by the board at its June 11 meeting asking that the wage schedule be revised to allow for $15 monthly increases for probationary employees and $10 for those on regular status.

THIS REQUEST WAS DENIED. The $5 increase goes into effect July 1.

Last night another letter was received from Heim, this one asking that a meeting be scheduled at the board's "earliest convenience" to discuss the wage request.

Since the matter of custodians' wages wasn't on the agenda for the special meeting no action could be taken last night.

Board members, however, were unanimous in agreement that they don't want to begin negotiating the salary issues.

It was decided to hold Heim's letter over to the July meeting and, at that time, advise the union of the board's position.

A REQUEST BY Jehovah's Witnesses for use of the Senior High School auditorium - gymnasium, cafeteria and kitchen for a circuit meeting Oct. 5-7 was granted.

The request had been made earlier this month and action deferred pending determination of a rental schedule.

The administration last night recommended a $375 charge and this was approved by the board.

Senior High, Central Junior Noon Hour Cut

A 25-minute cutback in the noon lunch period at Senior High School and Central Junior High School beginning next fall was approved Thursday night by the Board of Education.

The new schedule—replacing one that has provided 55 minutes for lunch—was adopted as something of a compromise. Originally similar changes would have been made in the noon hour at Washington-Kosciusko and Jefferson junior high schools.

In the interest of economy directors decided last night, on the recommendation of Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson, to make no major changes in the noon schedule at the two outlying junior high schools this next year.

A "CLOSED" noon hour will be established in conjunction with the abbreviated lunch period. That means that unless specifically exempted students will be required to remain on school premises during the noon hour.

This, school authorities expect, will result in sharp increases in cafeteria patronage and, in turn, would necessitate additional food preparation and service equipment at the cafeterias.

Considered earlier this month was a proposal by Board President Lawrence Santelman that perhaps a central food preparation center might be established—probably at Senior High School—for service to the other schools to reduce expenditures for new equipment.

LAST NIGHT Nelson suggested that the new schedule be instituted next fall only at Senior High and Central Junior High schools.

This would permit operation of the noon lunch programs at the other schools with no need for new equipment. A comparatively small expenditure, Nelson said, would provide equipment necessary to accommodate the larger cafeteria attendance at Senior High. He thought the school could get by with the purchase of an additional steam kettle costing about $900 and a new mixer, estimated to cost $1,200.

The only change in the schedule at Washington-Kosciusko and Jefferson, then, would be a curtailment of about 10 minutes to allow for adjustment in bus schedules at the other schools with the earlier afternoon dismissal.

OTHER BOARD members approved Nelson's suggestion and concurred in Santelman's observation that "this will give a chance to take a good look at how the shorter noon hour works down here before extending it to the other schools. We'll also have time to study the practicality of a central food service."

With the new noon schedule classes at Central and Senior High schools will be dismissed 25 minutes earlier in the afternoon and a seventh period will be made possible for extracurricular activities and additional instruction.

Quiet Settles Over Viola

VIOLA, Minn.—The palter of little feet should be quieted in the hamlet of Viola today.

Erwin Duell, Thomas Dickerman and Richard Brennan counted feet in Viola's 88th annual Gopher Court Thursday. Harold Shea, township clerk, issued drafts and Wesley LaBara, treasurer, immediately turned the drafts into cash for bounty collectors.

Bounty was paid for nearly 1,000 striped and pocket gophers. A small amount of bounty was paid for rats, crows and woodchucks. Lyle Splittscocker, 18, was way out ahead for the year, collecting $165.97 for nearly 700 gophers. James Olson, followed with $42.20, and Robert Rueb collected $30.81.

Mrs. Carrie Mulholland, 92, just watched Thursday's afternoon parade but 88 years ago she marched in Viola's first Gopher Court parade celebration. And she's only missed a few since then. Gareth Hiebert, St. Paul newsman, spoke Thursday morning about life in a small town.

In the afternoon doll buggies, pets and coaster wagons paraded and the following won prizes: Doll buggies: Katherine and Patricia Nigon, first; Colleen Bany, second, and Tammy Blazing, third. Pets: Martin Nigon, first; Timmy Dittich, second, and Ronnie Jech, third; coaster wagon, Darrel Schroeder, first, and Nancy Erwin, second.

Thursday afternoon the Elgin High School band gave a concert, and the Exola High School band and hometown talent closed the celebration which had a moderate gopher catch but the largest parade turnout ever—2,500.

In September 1959 Mrs. Cordes' husband had extensive heart surgery at University Hospitals. At that time and during his two months of convalescence Cordes received 24 pints of blood from the Houston County blood bank. Cordes has been able to return to his welder's job at Warner & Swasey since January 1960. "I'm anxious to help the Red Cross blood bank continue its vital service," said Mrs. Cordes. An attendant in last year's contest, Miss Judith Majerus, 72 W. Mill St., will be adviser to the contestants this year and will answer questions on all phases of the event for them.

Sugar Loaf Fire Alarm Box Removed

Removal of an inoperative fire alarm box in Sugar Loaf was reported today by Fire Chief John L. Steadman.

Steadman said the box on the Sugar Loaf road near the top of the hill has not been operating for more than a month and is one of several that will be removed from certain residential districts.

Some of those that are in proper operating order will be relocated in other districts.

Baer Candidate For Re-election

Paul M. Baer

The chairman of the Winona County Board of Commissioners filed for re-election as commissioner from the 4th District Thursday afternoon.

He is Paul M. Baer, who was first elected to the board in 1954. He is a former chairman of the welfare board, of which he also is a member as county commissioner.

Baer, 55, a native of Pennsylvania, owns a 240-acre farm, a mile south of Fremont. It is operated by his son, Roger. Another son, Robert, is at home but works in Lewiston. A married daughter lives in St. Paul.

Baer is a long-time member of the Odd Fellows and also is a member of Evergreen lodge of the Masons at Clyde. He and his wife, the former Olga Ferden of Peterson, belong to First Presbyterian Church at Lewiston.

The jury deliberated five hours before returning the verdict at the conclusion of a three-day trial of the action by Mrs. Hilda Benck, as trustee for the heirs of her husband, Walter Benck, against Reginald Nelson, 1606 Kraemer Dr., and Robert N. Beadles, owner of Winona Cleaning Works.

Benck died July 28, 1961, a short time after his pickup truck and a panel truck driven by Nelson and owned by Beadles collided at the junction of two roads near Bethany.

Jurors retired to the jury room at 3:30 p.m. after receiving instructions from Judge Arnold. Hoff, Rochester, and returned the verdict at 8:20 p.m. Arthur Feils, Elba, Minn., was jury foreman.

Court is now in recess over the weekend. The next jury case is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Jaycees Planning Chicken Barbecue At Kiddieland

Junior Chamber of Commerce members will hold their annual chicken barbecue Saturday and Sunday at Kiddieland, at the east end of Lake Winona.

The barbecue is in conjunction with the weekend water ski tournament being sponsored by the Sugar Loaf Water Ski Club.

Each adult ticket for the barbecue will be accompanied by two free tickets for any of the children's rides at Kiddieland, according to William J. Doerer, Jaycee publicity chairman. Hours for the barbecue are Saturday 5-8 p.m. and Sunday 12-3 p.m.

No charge will be made for admission to the water ski tourney.

Public schools students in certain outlying residential districts won't have free bus transportation next fall if a school budget cut considered by the Board of Education Thursday night is approved at the July-board meeting.

Although the school system virtually eliminated its school bus program a number of years ago when it sold its school-owned buses, it has continued to contract annually with the Winona Transit Co. for city bus service to transport students from the closed Sugar Loaf school district to schools in the city.

At the time the Sugar Loaf school was closed there apparently had been some informal agreement between the district and Winona school board that children from the district would be taken into the public schools here and be afforded transportation.

Such an agreement on transportation, however, never was

Sugar Loaf School Bus May Be Discontinued

Public schools students in certain outlying residential districts won't have free bus transportation next fall if a school budget cut considered by the Board of Education Thursday night is approved at the July-board meeting.

Although the school system virtually eliminated its school bus program a number of years ago when it sold its school-owned buses, it has continued to contract annually with the Winona Transit Co. for city bus service to transport students from the closed Sugar Loaf school district to schools in the city.

Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson pointed out that the Sugar Loaf district reimburses the school system $1,900 a year for the contract amount. Last year 39 children from the Sugar Loaf district rode the bus.

Transportation on this route also was provided approximately 100 children—not every day, necessarily—from the other areas on the route.

Directors questioned whether it was proper to provide transportation for these children when other outlying areas aren't afforded bus service.

ALTHOUGH FINAL action on the budget was deferred until next month, board members agreed that this allocation should be eliminated from the proposed budget.

The Sugar Loaf district, then, could make its own contract arrangements for transportation with Winona Transit or any other carrier.

The board will continue to contract with Winona Transit for transportation of athletic teams and hand to Jefferson Field for practices, out-of-town athletic and field trips and other purposes.

While the board was considering the transportation budget, 2nd Ward Director Maurice D. Godsey said he felt savings could be effected if scheduling of out-of-town athletic events could be drafted so that such teams as golf, tennis, baseball and track might all travel to the same city on the same day.

Proposed Levy Up $60,000, Board to Take Second Look

By GORDON HOLTE
Daily News Staff Writer

Told that a 4.26-mill increase in the school tax levy appeared to be necessary to finance public school operations here in the 1963-64 fiscal year, the Board of Education Thursday night asked its administrative staff to take a closer look at its preliminary listing of anticipated expenditures to determine whether it can be brought more nearly into line with the current year's budget.

Directors spent four hours studying a proposed operational budget calling for expenditures of $1,894,702 from the general school fund, some $160,000 more than was budgeted for this fiscal year and $200,000 in excess of actual disbursements in the year ending last March 31.

IT WAS THE first look board members had at the budget proposal submitted by Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson and Paul Sanders, board clerk and business manager, and it was thought at first that a new budget might be adopted at last night's special meeting.

When directors found, however, that an increase of approximately $60,000 in the local tax levy would be required to support the proposed budget they decided to hold up on the budget until next month and, in the meantime, see if some, where along the line something can be done to reduce the tax hike.

Just where these cutbacks could come, the administrative staff couldn't answer last night, explaining that in drafting the proposal they had made suggested allocations in consideration of past experience and felt that items listed represented amounts necessary to maintain a sound educational program.

THIS, IN BRIEF, is how the tax picture shaped up in the preliminary proposal last night:

• A local levy of $880,175 would be required to finance the operational budget of, roughly, $1.9 million. The remaining $914,527 would be realized from other sources such as state and federal aids and miscellaneous revenues. The budget adopted a year ago called for a $921,659 local levy.

In addition to the levy for the general school fund, five mills would be levied for the school building sinking fund. This is a fund dedicated to major new construction and improvements and was established to keep the public school plant on a pay-as-you-go basis. The sinking fund levy would be the same as for the current year and there was no indication that any of the directors last night wished to make any changes in it.

Although the school district valuation on which the mill levy is based won't be determined until next December, the current valuation of the mill is $13,684, which means that a five-mill sinking fund levy would bring in around $88,000.

• In terms of mills the proposed levy for 1963-64 would be 76.62—including 71.62 for the general fund—compared with 72.36 for the current budget.

• The budget proposed Thursday envisions—if revenues are received as anticipated—a cash balance at the end of the 1963-64 fiscal year of $271,278, the same as that expected next March 31. Books were closed last spring on a balance of $283,169.

THE SCHOOL budget must be adopted by Aug. 1 and then goes to the City Council for its approval.

The Council has the authority to veto the budget in its entirety or in part—a right exercised only once in recent years—but the board can override this veto.

Retiring NSP Employees Cited

Nearly 73 years of service to Northern States Power Co. and the predecessor company were recognized at a dinner here this week.

Sixty-five NSP employees and pensioners were at Athletic Club Wednesday evening to honor E. L. Fakler and A. J. Szuminski. Fakler retired May 31 after completing almost 36 years of service. Szuminski will retire June 30 after 37 years.

Fakler was employed by the company Oct. 15, 1926 at the Liberty Street steam plant. He worked as a crane operator, fireman, operator, assistant chief, chief and more recently as production plant clerk. He lives at 411 Liberty St. with his wife and daughter, Debbie. His older daughter, Marilyn, is married and lives in the Twin Cities.

Szuminski began June 16, 1925, in the street railway department. He worked with the track crew, performed car repair services, and when the street cars were about to be converted to buses he was transferred to the electric department. He became an electrician and more recently was appointed foreman of the electric crew. He lives at 193 Harvester Ave.

S. J. Pettersen, Winona Division manager, was master of ceremonies at the dinner meeting. He pointed out that after retirement life goes on, but it can go on better than during working years. If proper planning is made and proper attitudes are adopted, retirement can be a great and rewarding experience, he said.

Only medical treatment so far has been administered. Doctors have not performed surgery.

McKinley Picnic

The McKinley Methodist Church picnic, scheduled for Sunday at Lake Park, has been postponed until June 30.

AFTER LOOKING through the budget, 4th Ward Director Daniel Sadowski said that he felt that the board should be sure before it submits a proposal to the Council that expenditures listed have been kept to a minimum.

"I'm sure that when the Council goes over department budgets this fall it's going to give a lot of attention to each one and we're going to have to show why we need this money."

Frank J. Allen Jr., 3rd Ward, added, "As far as I'm concerned, I can accept this budget as what the administration says represents amounts needed to run our schools. But until I know more about each item I'd find it hard to defend it simply on the basis that our experts say that's what's needed."

Nelson said that the increased expenditures contemplated are prompted, for the most part, by anticipated increases in school enrollments.

"You actually come down to what's necessary for a sound educational program," the superintendent continued. "You can cut here and there but this should be done only if you feel that this is an educational program the community can't afford."

WHEN IT COMES to parsing down the increase the board can consider two possibilities:

• First, cash surplus can be dipped into. Directors did that last year to the tune of about one mill in an effort to hold the line as tight as possible and last night there was some talk about a $30,000 reduction in the anticipated cash balance.

• The other would be reductions along the line in proposed expenditures for the operating year covered by the new budget and here the board must consider where the money from the levy for the general school fund goes. Of the $1,894,702 proposed by the administration, 71 percent—or $1,410,419—was earmarked for instructional services.

This covers such categories as salaries for instructional personnel, textbooks, administrative expenses, audio-visual aids, laboratory supplies and equipment and training for the handicapped.

THE NEXT largest item is for operation and maintenance of the school plant which the administration estimated would cost $22,520, constituting 11.6 percent of the total budget. Salaries of custodians and maintenance personnel, costs of utilities and supplies are listed in this item.

Except for food service, which calls for $121,250 and is self-supporting, none of the other categories account for more than 3 or 3 percent of the total budget.

A major part of the increase in the proposed budget was reflected in anticipated costs of instruction which were set at $1,306,170 in last year's budget and $1,380,269 in the one proposed last night.

Most of this hike is accounted for by increased salary costs, going from $1,228,030 in the current budget to $1,297,444 in the one proposed for 1963-64.

IN ITS RUNDOWN of budget items last night directors informally agreed to several revisions in the original listing.

One was a reduction of $500 in the amount allocated for science laboratory supplies. There was a feeling that with recent improvements in the science laboratories certain equipment purchases necessary in previous years would not be necessary.

A cut was made in the transportation budget with the anticipated elimination of school bus service to Sugar Loaf and certain other outlying districts.

And, the board felt that $500 could be trimmed from the amount listed for laundry and dry cleaning.

Near the end of the meeting consideration was given to the school auxiliary fund which finances certain athletic and other extracurricular activities.

No one could agree on an exact amount for reduction, however, and it was decided at this point that the entire budget should be revised again by the administration and a new proposal submitted next month.

Kennedy Acts To Coordinate Policy Reports

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP) — After several weeks of watching its officials take conflicting measurements of the economy, the Kennedy administration has revived procedures for coordinating domestic policy statements.

President Kennedy reportedly was concerned, and executives around the tables of corporation board rooms confused, by the spray of opinions from Washington.

Now, according to administration sources, speeches and statements in thorny areas will be coordinated. That means they'll be screened, probably at the White House, to make sure they express consistent policy.

A statement this week by Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, accented the situation. It prompted a quick contradiction by Clague's boss, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

Ever since the stock market took its big dip, administration spokesmen have been insisting the economy is in good health. All of a sudden Clague was quoted as saying a recession is likely next year and the only question really is when it will happen. Goldberg swiftly countered that "the economic facts do not bear out such an assumption." Then Clague issued a statement contending he had been misinterpreted—that he had not predicted a recession but was analyzing economic trends which show a downturn every 3 or 3½ years.

Goldberg's was the first direct, public reaction to a theory expounded by another government official. Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, has said he knew of no clearing system through which recent statements on the economy passed—and the record bears him out.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said on June 4 the administration would recommend "top to bottom" income tax cuts for next year. Two days later stories appeared in several papers that Kennedy had decided to propose immediate income tax reduction, or at least had it under the deepest kind of consideration. The reports obviously stemmed from an administration source, reportedly one in the White House.

New Charges Piling Up Against Estes

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Fresh criminal charges piled up Thursday against Billie Sol Estes, the West Texas promoter whose chemical fertilizer, grain storage and cotton growing operations involved millions of dollars.

A federal grand jury indicted Estes, 37, on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy from one state to another.

There are 29 counts in the indictment, which also named three other men and a business firm. The same grand jury accused them earlier of fraud through mortgages on fertilizer tanks, charging some of the tanks never existed.

Estes' varied enterprises are in the hands of a court-appointed receiver. He testified last week that his debts exceed assets by about $17.5 million.

Creditors are studying a plan to reorganize and operate the businesses in hope of getting all their money back. Otherwise they have been advised the federal court will order bankruptcy proceedings.

Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said in Austin, at about the same time the indictment was returned here, that he will dig deeper into Estes' affairs in a court of inquiry at Pecos, the promoter's home town.

Agreement in West Coast Maritime Row

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Contract agreement was reached in the West Coast maritime dispute Thursday night, nine days before the end of an 80-day Taft-Hartley cooling off period.

The nine-month quarrel erupted in a four-week strike in March and April that idled some 60 ships and several thousand men, caused a shortage of some food supplies in Hawaii and brought on presidential intervention.

James J. Healy, special mediator and President Kennedy's personal representative, announced the agreement at a news conference, and said representatives of the ship owners and the unions would submit it to their respective memberships, with recommendation for approval.

Healy, former Harvard professor, said the proposed contract runs to June 15, 1965.

J. Paul St. Sure, president of the ship owners organization—Pacific Maritime Association—said the proposal provides:

1. A 2 per cent across the board wage increase for some 10,000 seamen retroactive to last Oct. 1. That would add about $15 a month to the pay of able-bodied seamen.
2. An immediate increase in paid vacation from three days a month to five days a month.
3. A pension increase in October from $125 a month to $150 a month.

Sunny, Dry Weather Over Much of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sunny, dry weather warmed much of the nation again today. The good weather pattern was broken here and there by thunderstorms and by fog that shrouded long stretches of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

A sizzling heat wave continued unbroken in the Southwest where a high of 113 was reached Thursday at Blythe, Calif. Readings in the 100-plus range were common.

Elsewhere in the nation temperatures were near normal for the first full day of summer. Readings early today were mostly in the 50s and 60s outside the hot Southwest.

By GRETCHEN L. LAMBERTON

HOME again after two weeks on my son's Indiana farm. I got home Sunday afternoon just before that weird near-tornado struck, and with me I brought seven-year-old Sara. It was Sara's first train trip, and she was thrilled within an inch of her life with being on a train and spent most of the time exploring everything from washrooms to vista dome cars. The excitement of ordering anything she wanted for lunch in the dining car was almost too much. She pored over the menu card until the waiter almost lost his mind. Then ordered a hamburger on a bun.

When we got off the comfortable air-cooled train in Winona the impact of the hot, humid air almost knocked us out. I can't remember when it's been so unbearably sultry and hot, and the violent storm came as a great relief. Several days later on a walk up the hill it was interesting to see the narrow swathe of blown-down birch and sumach trees that the storm had cut along the hogback leading to Sugar Loaf.

It took several days to get unpacked, laundry tended to, mail read, Sara settled and squared away, and so on. And then yesterday I turned my attention to what had been a fairly tidy vegetable garden before I left. The weeds were so thick and so tall that one could hardly find the vegetable plants. In addition there was dill, dill, and more dill all over the garden. Last year I had planted a row of dill and apparently it had sown itself with a vengeance, and the whole garden was a field of feathery dill; there was enough to supply a dill pickle factory, and today I must start pulling it out.

Last week as I watched my son cultivating a field of soybeans I noted that every so often he would stop and pull masses of something off the blades of the cultivator. It was bindweed, which wraps around the blades and has to be pulled off every so often. I pulled up a few of these weeds which look like morning glory vines running wild. Some of the vines run along the ground for 10 to 12 feet. Bindweed is one of Indiana's worst and most exasperating weed pests.

The meanest weed of Indiana is called cane weed, which looks so exactly like corn that it's very hard to tell the difference. It grows big, fast and tough and saps the nourishment out of the ground. Jimson weed, buckhorn and giant foxtail are prolific noxious weeds and must be dealt with early to save a crop. Since Indiana weather is warmer and usually more humid than ours, and their growing season is about three weeks longer, both weeds and insects are a much greater problem than they are in Minnesota.

I've never seen as many woodpeckers of all varieties as there are in Indiana. I think the main reason is because of the thousands upon thousands of huge dead elm trees that stand gaunt and bleached white like old bones. The woodpeckers live in holes in these tragic old skeletons killed by Dutch Elm blight. Many wooden corn cribs are built with vertical slats instead of the horizontal ones more common in Minnesota, and it's very engaging to watch the woodpeckers skating and gliding up and down these slits eating corn.

Poor Study Habits Hit

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

When a child starts off in school doing average and above average work and then falls into a prolonged slump, the chances are that faulty study habits are catching up with him.

Recently, I received this letter:

Dear Dr. Nason:
Our son is a high school sophomore. He was an average student in his first few years of grade school. Then his work fell below average and continues to fall each year. His reading and comprehension are slow and inaccurate. What do you suggest is wrong?

Mr. E. G., Eugene, Ore.
Your son's poor reading habits probably are affecting all of his school work. I suggest that you try to help him increase his reading speed and comprehension in this manner:

—Have him skim through his entire assignment to get a general idea of what it is about.
—Then have him read the assignment rapidly, searching for key ideas as well as an understanding of what the author has written.
—Finally, be sure to praise him as his comprehension improves. This will encourage him to do better and better.

Dear Dr. Nason:

My son intends to enter a university this fall. He will minor in chemistry but he plans to go on to law school. Can you tell me how many new lawyers make good and really amount to something financially. How do law and chemistry compare as fields of promise?

Mr. J. M., Rockaway, N. J.
Whether your son makes good is entirely up to him. Top chemists and lawyers both are well paid.

But one word of caution. If your son enters either field with the sole idea of making money, he probably will be a disappointment to you.

Dear Dr. Nason:

My child is in his freshman year of high school. Recently I was called in for a conference and shown his Differential Aptitude Test and Personality Record with the explanation that they give a college an idea of what type of person my child is. Are these tests really essential for college entrance?

Mrs. J. W., Aulne, Kan.

The personality tests given in the freshman year of high school are not a requirement for college entrance. The college admissions officer administers his own tests at the time a youngster enters college. The results of these tests are of value only to a person familiar with them and those trained in interpreting the scores.

Mr. Kennedy on Executive Power

SOMEWHERE IN the middle of President Kennedy's press conference, a reporter asked the President what he thought of former President Eisenhower's recent criticism of the growth of Executive power. Mr. Kennedy had an answer, and it seems to us most of the other questions by reporters also suggested why Executive power has grown.

The President was asked to explain why he sent troops to Laos; he did so, he said, to defend Thailand and to stabilize the situation so as to permit a diplomatic solution. He was asked about differences with President De Gaulle; he replied that disagreements were inevitable, but so was the interdependence of the United States and Western Europe. He was asked about the Billie Sol Estes case, and he noted that his Administration opened the case with an indictment and would discipline any officials found guilty of favoritism.

In each of these matters the President's role was one that no other branch of government could assume: Congress is in no position to rush troops to a troubled spot in an emergency, or to provide leadership for the intricate Western alliance, or even to prosecute Estes or discipline federal officials for unethical acts, though in the latter case congressional inquiry can certainly help. In short, if presidential power has grown, it is because the problems which a President faces have grown immensely.

MR. KENNEDY intimated as much, choosing as evidence the coming House battle over his farm bill, narrowly approved in committee. The bill permits rigid grain production controls in return for relatively high price supports. The Executive branch would thus be given new farm managerial authority to cut down surpluses. But, as the President said, it is either that or a return to the Benson policies under which surpluses grew and grew. It is either that or a continuation of policies which, he said, might cost taxpayers another four billion dollars in four years.

IF CONGRESS could, or would, or ever had, solved the costly surplus problem, the President would not have to take it upon himself to try to do so. But under our system of government the Chief Executive is expected to supply just such leadership when all else fails. The presidential task may have grown vast for one man, as some critics contend, but that is at least a fact of life which cannot be wished away.

Railroad Mergers Obviously Necessary

IT IS NO secret that America's railroads have been badly buffeted by adverse financial winds. As victims of radical change in the public's transportation habits many rail lines, once giants of fiscal soundness, now chronically lose money. In an effort to combat this condition where income seldom matched outgo, one railroad after the next has sought refuge in merger.

Mergers presently under negotiation involve the largest railroads in the business: The New York Central, Pennsylvania, Great Northern and Northern Pacific. Were they to combine they would form a network preeminent in East and Northwest.

SEN. ESTES Kefauver of Tennessee looks askance at this tendency to amalgamate—not especially at the roads mentioned, but at the whole idea generally. To implement this feeling, he has asked Congress for legislation suspending all railroad mergers for a period of two years while the problem is investigated.

This raises serious questions of legislative interference. It would seem that there are sufficient federal statutes now to prevent mergers which are in restraint of trade. The Justice Department has the tools necessary to protect the public interest. The suspension of mergers sought by Kefauver smacks of harassment.

OUR RAILROADS are in financial trouble, without a doubt. If corporate mergers will keep them economically healthy without violating anti-trust laws, they should not be unduly hampered in this.

Peron is trying for a comeback in Argentina. Considering the luxurious life he's leading in Spain, it's hard to see why he wants to come back.

The administration may be anti-business, but judging recent vents business seems anti-administration.

Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world. John 1:29.

How Do You Stand, Sir?

Business Fears Kennedy Moves

By SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER

Is the Kennedy administration really anti-business?

My conviction is that it is, based on its action in the steel price dispute, its disdain for sound fiscal practices, its demands for more control over the economy and the increased activity of its regulatory agencies.

But I believe the important point to remember is this: Regardless of whether or not the federal government is actually hostile to the interests of business, the fact that the business community and many American investors believe it to be anti-business is a tremendous psychological factor.

The existence of this widespread belief is undoubtedly the thing that triggered the stock market plunge. It is also the thing that is beginning to dry up the investment capital needed to expand the economy and create new jobs for an expanding population.

It is injecting fear and confusion and indecision into the operation of the national economy at a time when our world-wide obligations cry out for healthy expansion.

This kind of uncertainty on the part of business over the attitude of big government is the high road to recession if there ever was one.

PERHAPS THE most important requirement for increased business activity and sound economic growth is a healthy climate. When optimism abounds, more people with money are eager to invest in the future. When pessimism and uncertainty reign, they sit tight. Their money remains idle and the wherewithal for business expansion and growth is withdrawn.

Consequently, the raging battle over whether the Kennedy administration is, in actual fact, anti-business becomes largely academic. The thing that has slowed down the American economy and sent the stock market into the doldrums is the prevailing conviction that the government is adamantly opposed to price increases and only weakly opposed to new union wage demands.

THIS BEING the case, the New Frontier—at the very least—is guilty of completely misunderstanding the way our free competitive enterprise system operates. It is guilty of letting the government appear to be antagonistic. It is guilty of believing that the system can function better if the government replaces the natural law of supply and demand with administrative edicts in the name of the "public interest."

Our national economy is an intricate and sensitive system. It must be understood both mechanically and psychologically by the government of the United States if we are to remain strong at a time of world-wide challenge. It cannot be subjected to tampering and experimentation at the government level if it is to supply the materials and employment for a growing population.

THIS KIND of tampering is always accompanied by the high-sounding theories of men who have never had to meet a payroll, struggle with technological changes, fight rising labor costs and adjust to burdensome tax laws.

These theorists have the textbooks, but they lack the insight of practical experience. They have the university degrees, but they lack the personal knowledge of the marketplace. They have the power of government, but they don't know when or how it should be used.

This is a highly dangerous situation. We are navigating in explosive economic waters when the vast power of government is handled by planners who lack fundamental understanding.

I SUGGEST that if the administration doesn't understand the vital necessity for business confidence and what massive government harassment can do to sap that confidence, it is ill-equipped to guide us through an era which requires economic growth on a huge scale.

In the situation we find ourselves today, a lack of understanding on the part of government can be just as ruinous to business activity as an admitted policy of hostility. At the moment, it is not so much what the government feels its official attitude to be with regard to business, but what the vast majority of American people believe that attitude to be.

Appearances can be misleading, but they also can be downright dangerous when they have such an important bearing on our economic future.

How do you stand, sir?

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Alabama Solon Mixes Hobbies and Business

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Alabama Cong. Frank Boykin, who proclaimed his love for all mankind but discovered the voters no longer feel the same about him, will return to Mobile with a 27-year accumulation of political mementoes, rattlesnake skins, stuffed deer heads, and assorted shooting irons (not to mention a gargantuan German cuckoo clock and an egg from an extinct bird called the great auk).

He will also bring home a multimillion-dollar bank book, which he fattened with shrewd business deals while he was taking his four-square stand for love.

He became famous in Congress for his motto, "everything is made for love," which he pasted in his hat brims, hung on his walls, and preached to everyone who came within backslapping distance of him.

But the Justice Department, like the voters who retired him to his 17,000-acre Alabama hunting preserve, doesn't entirely reciprocate his tender sentiments. At least two grand juries have been asking awkward questions about his dealings with a Maryland Savings and Loan Association.

The company, First Continental Savings and Loan, helped to finance the sale of 13,000 acres of choice Boykin-owned land in Maryland and Virginia. It was a complex deal involving various firms controlled by the Boykin family and First Continental's attorney, W. L. Robinson.

But one fact stands out: Boykin made a whopping profit on the deal.

Whether out of love or gratitude, he used his very considerable energy to help First Continental's promoter, Kenneth Edlin, who had come under federal fire.

In this endeavor, Boykin was joined by another Democratic congressman, Maryland's influential Tom Johnson, who has done willing work for his constituents but who apparently did too much for Edlin.

Boykin and Johnson now disagree over who got the other into the savings and loan soup. Boykin claimed to this column that Johnson had brought the Edlin-Robinson crowd to him. But Johnson insisted it was the other way around; he had been so overwhelmed by Boykin's bonhomie, he said, that he had gone along innocently with their schemes.

As early as June 1960, Johnson delivered a speech on the House floor promoting Edlin's savings - and - loan interests. Three months later, Johnson started collecting $200 monthly payments from Edlin's attorney. (The aforementioned Robinson, these payments, he explains, were legal fees.)

Later, the payments began to come from two Robinson-controlled firms, Charles County and Leisure City land companies, which also bought into the 13,000-acre tract from the Boykin family.

In the spring of 1961, Boykin and Johnson called upon Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy in Edlin's behalf. The savings-and-loan promoter had become the subject of a federal investigation and couldn't get FHA approval for housing loans.

The two congressmen asked Kennedy to take the federal course off Edlin. Instead, Kennedy later authorized an investigation of Boykin and Johnson.

Shortly after the call upon the attorney general, First Continental signed a 12-month lease to rent an office from Johnson in Snow Hill, Md. This added another $200 a month to his income, although the lease was terminated at the end of four months.

Altogether Johnson collected a grand total of $19,200 from the Edlin-Robinson interests. Boykin refused to say how much he cleared on the land sale.

Both Democratic congressmen voluntarily appeared before a Rockville, Md., grand jury which politely thanked them for their testimony and accused them of no wrongdoing.

Another grand jury in Baltimore is also asking questions. It's enough, Boykin implied, to make him doubt his own motto about love.

Note—It is not illegal for a congressman to accept a legal retainer if it is not in a case against the federal government.

With unbecoming Republican relish, South Dakota Sen. Karl Mundt has been issuing pious pronouncements about Billie Sol Estes and the farm storage scandals.

The bland, benign Mundt, who resembles an accidental Budha, has spoken darkly of politicians who poke their noses into the nation's grain bins.

Evidence has now turned up that Mundt indeed knows what he is talking about. Retrieved from forgotten files is a letter Mundt wrote to the Agriculture Department on Sept. 1, 1959, insisting that more grain should be stored in an elevator owned by one of his campaign contributors.

The contributor, Omer Appelwick of Madison, S. D., had built a new grain elevator that would hold 147,000 bushels. But all the government had deigned to dump in it was a mere 25,000 bushels, hardly enough business to keep up the mortgage payments.

At this point, Mundt brought his senatorial influence to bear upon the Agriculture Department. In a letter addressed to Clarence Palmy, then associate commodity stabilization administrator, Mundt claimed the government had made a "commitment" to fill Appelwick's new bin at the prevailing storage rates.

Both Appelwick and a government spokesman now agree this statement was an exaggeration—typical perhaps of politicians who poke their noses into the nation's grain bins.

Note—Appelwick, who is still having trouble keeping his grain elevators filled, acknowledged in this column that he had contributed to fund-raising affairs for Mundt before 1959. Appelwick also donated another $100 to the senator's 1960 campaign.

Long Stalemate Seen With Reds

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Sometimes the obvious is either overlooked or doesn't sink in right away. A case in point is what's happening in America's relations with the Soviet Union.

A "stalemate" is really now in effect. Will it develop into one of those long periods of peace in world history based on the maintenance of a "balance of power" without a big war?

Thus, it is obvious that Premier Khrushchev, without signing an agreement with this country, and President Kennedy, without signing an agreement with Moscow, have both come separately to the conclusion that Red China's possession of nuclear weapons could lead to a nuclear war which might destroy everybody. If nuclear arms are to be withheld from Red China by Russia, isn't it logical then for the United States, as a balancing factor, to withhold nuclear weapons from France or any other country hereafter? Back of this unwritten understanding emerges, as always diplomacy, a powerful reason why a given policy makes sense from the standpoint of both sides.

Red China could be an irresponsible wielder of nuclear weapons. This could lead to a nuclear war that could destroy Russia as well as other areas of the world. Hence Moscow is unwilling to build up Red China as a nuclear power.

France, of course, wouldn't be irresponsible or go counter to American desires, but if the United States distributes nuclear data and equipment and helps build up other nations allied with it, the Soviet Union couldn't logically withhold nuclear knowledge and weapons from Red China.

NOW THIS doesn't mean that America intends to reduce in any way its nuclear power. Nor is there to be any hesitation about using nuclear weapons if circumstances ever require it. What is planned is to concentrate nuclear power inside the NATO alliance for defensive purposes in Europe and leave the main control to the United States because the truly big missile bases are in this country.

A most significant address on the subject was delivered last Saturday by Secretary of Defense McNamara. It was prepared after the most intensive study by Secretary of State Rusk and officials of all departments concerned, as well as by President Kennedy.

There was no mention of France, but the speech was aimed at answering Gen. De Gaulle's argument for a separate national nuclear force of his own. Mr. McNamara, without referring to the Soviet relationship to Red China, made this statement which applies to both sides in the "cold war":

"The creation of a single additional national nuclear force encourages the proliferation of nuclear power with all of its attendant dangers."

NOW THE word "proliferate" means to "grow by multiplying new parts in quick succession." If Red China gets nuclear weapons from the Soviet Union, members of the Communist bloc in Europe — Poland or Czechoslovakia — would demand them, too. And if West Germany had a nuclear force of her own, East Germany would want to be protected by some kind of nuclear strength. Even though these might be small forces in themselves, they could add up to an array of national units, any one of which could plunge the world into a nuclear war overnight.

Secretary McNamara put it this way in his speech: "In short, then, limited nuclear capabilities, operational independence, and dangerous, expensive, prone to obsolescence, and lacking in credibility as a deterrent."

Mr. McNamara mentioned that the United States during the coming fiscal year will spend close to $15 billion on its nuclear weapons "to insure their adequacy." This is tantamount to saying that a severe economic drain would arise in any country that sought to become a nuclear power. And yet proficiency in nuclear warfare would not be attained.

HENCE, THE building of nuclear strength for military purposes by any power except the United States and the Soviet Union would be a costly, dangerous and, indeed, superfluous project. Even Great Britain is finding it an expensive undertaking, and her contributions hereafter will be largely

Planter Warts are Contagious

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are planter warts contagious? What can be done to get rid of them? My husband has them.—Mrs. E. O.

Excuse my being technical, but it's planter and not planter. It means warts on the planter, or sole of the foot. We know that in general these warts seem to be virus-caused, and they can be spread through showers, bathroom floors, etc.

Therefore I recommend that people with such warts never walk around barefoot, but use shower clogs or slippers. There are different ways to remove the warts, such as with an electric needle, paring, or X-ray. Podiatrists may use strong acid solutions or possibly the injection of a solution into the wart roots.

Dear Dr. Molner: There is an adult in our family who "pops" the children, pulling on a joint until it cracks. I've protested but he says it does no harm. Usually the children laugh, but our 3-year-old cried out when he "popped" her toe. Is there danger that the joints will enlarge?—MRS. L. W.

I'm afraid the best I can say is that this is a rather senseless indoor sport. I see no good coming from it, and would stop it on the grounds that it may be painful and can cause harm.

supplementary and not independent of NATO. Secretary Rusk has gone to Paris to argue all this out with Gen. De Gaulle, but the McNamara speech laid the main points on the line ahead of time.

President Kennedy has, therefore, developed a sound policy, and, since it happens by coincidence to be based on the very same kind of argument that appeals to the Soviet government in its relations with Red China, the world may hope for a period of "stalemate."

It goes without saying that the big task still is to "avert" a nuclear outbreak as between the Soviet Union and the United States. And this means that monkey business in and around Berlin has to be suspended by Mr. Khrushchev, and the "crisis" atmosphere avoided so that fears of a surprise attack on the nuclear side will be largely removed.

NOW THIS doesn't bar the building up by either side of conventional forces — ordinary armies and navies. The United States wants to strengthen NATO and already has promised some missile-bearing Polaris submarines for the use of the Western Alliance. But, as Mr. McNamara has pointed out, defense in modern wars is not the responsibility of any one power but of all powers in an alliance. It's a necessary strategy, as World War I and World War II proved. Allied rather than individual planning now has been accepted as vital in deterring or preventing a third world war.

Miss Ruth Pallas was installed president of Soroptimist Club of Winona at the club dinner meeting in Richards Hall, Winona State College Wednesday evening. Miss Harriet Kelley, past lieutenant governor of the North Central Region, was installing officer.

THE TRAVELING prize donated by Mrs. Roy Baab was won by Mrs. Herbert Streich. Annual reports were given, and the Soroptimist bulletin was distributed by Mrs. Katherine Lambert. Miss Taraldson, retiring president, reported that two new clubs are being chartered, one in the north west region, at Wolf Point, Mont., and the other in the south west region, at Los Banos, Calif.

Winona Soroptimist Club drew up a recommendation to be presented to the Winona Park-Recreation department, stating that they are in favor of re-establishing the statue of Weno-nah and the fountain in an available, suitable area of that portion of Central Park which will remain after the post office is built. Mrs. Sudie Blumberg was appointed to follow through on this recommendation.

What Do You Believe?

By GARY EVANS
Daily News Church Editor

The Church of the Nazarene was formed in the United States in 1908 by a coming together of several independent church groups. The church in Winona, now served by the Rev. Phil Williams, was organized Jan. 19, 1933 and met in a home and later at two different church locations before moving to the modern building at Highway 61 and Orrin Street.

"OUR UNIQUE mission is to preserve the doctrine of holiness of heart and life," Rev. Williams stated. "We believe in rebirth and hold the same principles as many Evangelical churches."

"We also believe in entire sanctification, or that act of God, subsequent to regeneration, by which believers are made free from original sin, or depravity and brought into a state of entire devotion to God and the holy obedience of love made perfect," he continued.

"It is wrought by the baptism with the Holy Spirit, and comprehends in one experience the cleansing of the heart from sin and the abiding indwelling presence of the Holy Spirit, empowering the believer for life and service."

"Entire sanctification is provided by the blood of Jesus, is wrought instantaneously by faith, preceded by entire consecration; and to this work and state of grace the Holy Spirit bears witness."

"THIS EXPERIENCE, is also known by various terms representing its different phases, such as, 'Christian Perfection,' 'Perfect Love,' 'Heart Purity,' 'The Baptism with the Holy Spirit,' 'The Fullness of the Blessing' and 'Christian Holiness.'"

"We believe in the Bible doctrine of divine healing and urge our people to seek to offer the prayer of faith for the healing of the sick," said Rev. Williams. "Providential means and agencies should not be refused."

"Free agency is another thing we believe in. Man's creation in Godlikeness included ability to choose between right and wrong, and that thus he was made morally responsible, that through the fall of Adam he became depraved so that he cannot now turn and prepare himself by his own natural strength and works to faith and calling upon God," he said.

"But we also believe that the grace of God through Jesus Christ is freely bestowed upon all men, enabling all who will to turn from sin to righteousness, believe on Jesus Christ for pardon and cleansing from sin, and follow good works pleasing and acceptable in His sight."

"WE BELIEVE that man though in the possession of the experience of regeneration and entire sanctification, may fall from grace and apostatize, and unless he repent of his sin, he hopelessly and eternally lost."

"We also believe in the Triune God, Jesus Christ, the Holy Scriptures, original sin or depravity, alonement, repentance, justification, regeneration and adoption, the second coming of Christ, resurrection, judgment and destiny, baptism and The Lord's Supper," Rev. Williams said.

Near the close of the 19th century a movement for the spread of holiness in organized church form developed almost simultaneously in various parts of the United States. This movement was similar to the Wesleyan revival of the previous century. The manifestation everywhere of a spontaneous drawing in the unity of the Spirit towards closer affiliation of those of like precious faith culminated finally in the organization of the Church of the Nazarene.

The great impulse of this movement has been the emphasis placed by the Scriptures upon the fact that, in the atonement, Jesus Christ has made provision, not only to save men from their sins, but also to perfect them in love.

ON MAY 12, 1886, a number of the brethren in Providence, R. I., interested in promoting the Wesleyan doctrine and experience of entire sanctification, organized and held weekly religious services, from each district form the general assembly which meets each four years. The general assembly is the highest law-making body of the church.

The international headquarters, publishing house and seminary are located in Kansas City, Mo. At present the facilities of each are being moved to new buildings on a plot of land that the church purchased.

THE WINONA church numbers 94 members with an average weekly Sunday school attendance of 100. Evening and midweek services are conducted in addition to the Sunday morning worship service.

The new parsonage, adjacent to the church, was completed April 8, 1961. An open house will be held July 8.

The church also has a young people's society, adult choir, vocal groups and church orchestra.

Rev. Williams, who was recalled for three years at Winona recently, came to the congregation from a pastorate in Richmond, Mo., where he had been for six years, in July 1958.

Nine Trial Plots In Winona Co.

LEWISTON, Minn. — Nine different types of field trial plots have been established in Winona County, Oliver Strand, county agent, reported.

These are the various types:

Small grain variety trials: Located on James Luehmann farm, a half-mile north of King Gas at Lewiston. Varieties included are A.J.A. Burnett, Clinton 60, Dodge, Gary, Goodfield, Minnesota, Nebraska, Normana, Norway, Portage and Redway Seed was contributed by Lewiston Elevator, Lewiston Feed and Produce and Fremont area farmers, Gerald Simon, John Bain, John Schoegel and Joe Heim.

Profit possibility plots (corn): Three plots were established on different soil types and conditions to check best fertilizer combination for greatest profit and response and to correlate fertilizer recommendation with soil test results.

Plots were established on the John Waldo farm, near Witoka, the Henry Meyer farm near Wilson and the Lester Luehmann farm, both near Bethany. Boron deficiency symptoms on alfalfa were noted last year in this area.

Follow-up observations will be made on these plots and recommendations given to the farmer and to others with similar deficiency symptoms as determined by visual and soil tests made by the county agents.

Chemical weed control plots (corn): Five chemical kits were obtained for establishment in Winona County. Three were distributed to vocational-agriculture instructors at St. Charles, Lewiston and Winona.

These were put in on the Jim Henry farm north of St. Charles, the Norman Luehmann (Sackreiter place) farm at the edge of Lewiston, and on the Garvin Sebo farm between Ridgeway and Nodine. Extension agents established one plot on wheel track corn planting on the Elmer and Russell Wirt farm near Lewiston and one on the conventional-tilled corn on the Lyle Swanson farm near Beaver.

Included chemical treatments are: Liquid and granular Randox, liquid and granular Randox-T, liquid atrazine at 2, 3 and 4 pounds per acre pre-emergence and at 3 pounds post-emergence (when corn was 4 feet, 8 inches tall), granular atrazine and Lorox plus one or more check plots.

Alfalfa variety and fertilization plot: A plot with four different alfalfa varieties including Ranger, Vernal, Du Puits and Archee was established two years ago on the Cyril Persons farm near St. Charles. The plot was crossed with different fertility treatments and is being observed for recovery after cutting, for percentage of winter kill, and for estimated performance as to yield and general acceptability.

X-tra profit corn: Several farmers were assisted with soil test interpretations, fertilizer recommendations and corn planting suggestions in connection with plots they established in "THE FARMER" magazine and extension service-sponsored X-tra Profit Corn contest.

The plots are set up with an acre of corn (at least eight rows wide) as a check plot—with no fertilizer, weedicides, insecticides or manure. Immediately adjacent to this area, on land with the same cropping history, a fertilized plot of two acres or more in size is established, using a combination of approved fertility and management practices according to soil test recommendations and needs determined by cropping history.

Farmers cooperating with these plots which will be yield checked this fall are: Eugene Kalmes, Rollingstone; Russell Wirt, Lewiston; Gerald Simon, Lewiston; Wayne Dabelstein, St. Charles, and James Luehmann, Lewiston.

All operations, material and labor is charged to the crop on an acre basis and "X-tra Profit" over the check plot is calculated after the yields are determined.

Chemical weed plots (soybeans): One soybean chemical kit was obtained for the St. Charles vocational agriculture instructor. This plot was established on the Merrill Nierow farm north of St. Charles. Extension agents established two soybean weed control plots on the Ralph Shank farm, both between Utica and St. Charles.

Chemicals included in these plots are liquid and granular Randox, for annual grassy weeds, liquid

OLIVER Strand, Winona County agent, reported that of 26 4-H clubs in the county, 20 have actively engaged in the 4-H conservation project which includes work on soil and water conservation. In 1961 a total of 56 members in the Winona district enrolled in the beginners conservation project.

Strand, in cooperation with Cy Crawford, with Watkins Experimental Farm, and with the assistance of Sillman, work unit conservationalist, held a countywide land judging and soil appreciation school and contest. The winning team, representing the county at the state contest at Melrose, placed 10th.

Robert Schutz, area forester, reported that 42 landowners were given technical forestry assistance in planting, timber marking and market information. A total of 175,700 trees were planted on 146.4 acres.

RAYMOND L. Schell, Winona County ASCS committee chairman, reported that $136,507 of ACP cost sharing was used on 815 farms in the two Winona County soil conservation districts during 1961. This represented about 44 percent of the farms in the districts.

The ACP also helped provide technical services by transferring $5,539 to the SCS and $506 to the Forest Service.

Those receiving awards for outstanding soil conservation work in 1961 were: Herbert Haase, Hillsdale Township; Ben Meyer, Lewiston, and Ed Nichow, Elba.

Other committee members are: Mr. and Mrs. Overt Colbenson, Hart; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kammerer, Winona Rt. 1; Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Babler and Mr. and Mrs. Lindley Smith, Ridgeway; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Thill, Winona Rt. 1; Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hobbs, Homer, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clog, Wilson.

A report was read from the agricultural committee of the Winona Chamber of Commerce which has been interested in the Witoka Calf Show many years and gives financial support.

Couldn't help but be impressed with the sincere reaction of Julie Jarrinen, Goodhue County Dairy Princess candidate, when she was crowned Region 10 Dairy Princess at Lake City Wednesday evening.

She cried perhaps as few candidates have cried before. She had been a mere attendant at the Goodhue County contest. She probably had resigned herself some time ago to put in an appearance, do her duty and come home again.

The fact that an attendant was named winner of 24 candidates representing eight counties proves one important fact: You just can't pin down the subjective judgment of judges. What impresses one judge will leave another cold. Congratulations to the new princess—a fine representative of Southeastern Minnesota.

Deceptive gasoline pricing tactics being used by some retailers brought a warning today from Ray R. Pytel, trade practice investigator for the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture. The department enforces state trade practice and fraudulent advertising laws.

As an example, Pytel cited a large billboard that reads "Regular Gasoline 29.9." Unless the unsuspecting motorist drives up to the proper pump he may pay more than the advertised price.

"Although this type of violator is in the minority, they continually upset the prevailing market and deceive their customers," Pytel said. "Just recently we had two convictions in cases where a service station advertised gasoline at one price while the posted prices on its pumps were a cent or two higher."

Wisconsin law, Pytel noted, clearly states that the advertised price must not be lower than that posted on each pump.

Another deceptive practice discovered by the state trade practice investigator is the omitting or obscuring of the fraction in large price signs.

For example, the .9 in a large 29.9 sign is so small that it is hardly discernible. Wisconsin law requires that in gasoline advertising, fractions of a cent must be at least half the size and prominence of the whole number.

Although it is not against the law to charge whatever you please for gasoline," Pytel said, "it is unlawful and deceptive not to disclose the price the customer must pay for the product involved in the offer."

"If he knows the price, he can make up his own mind as to whether or not this is a bargain," Pytel stated.

The continued wet weather during the past several weeks has been one long headache for farmers. Keith Sommerfeld, Pepin County agent, writes:

"I've seen a lot of oats laid flat by the last storm. If this has happened at your place, I think you should be prepared to remove the oats as soon as possible. The new seedling must be protected at all costs. This oats can be green-fed or put into the silo; however, it may have to be wilted first. Oats put in in the milk-stage and at 65 percent moisture will not drain from the silo, will have very little odor when fed and will be a very palatable and nutritious feed."

Matt Metz, Wabasha County agent, says: "The rains never seem to stop. Our haying operation is almost at a standstill. Farmers who are fluding the hay tank rank for good quality might consider its use for hay silage or haylage. Corn is now progressing with the sunshine of the past week. I have noticed some root rot and yellowing but continued sunshine should remedy this."

June Is Dairy Month

This Is How Arabs Discovered Cheese

It was a scorcher of a day, even for the desert! Deep in their hooded cloaks, heads bent against a burning wind, members of a small Arab band fought their way over the tiresome trail. Camels, laden with baggage, and food, bumped and groaned behind them. At long last the band creaked wearily into a small oasis. Animal skin bags were lifted down for a drink of the life-giving milk they held. But, what was this? Solid blobs, some large, some small, in the milk bag! And the blobs tasted good!

That according to legend, was the beginning of the history of cheese. And the product which the Arabs found, according to dairy experts, most closely resembled cottage cheese.

requires heat, agitation and sometimes a small amount of a substance called rennet, all of which by fortunate chance, were combined in the Arabs' discovery.

Cottage cheese is one of the most popular of dairy products, well-liked because it is economical, low in calories and a good source of protein. In its familiar paper cartons it comes in two varieties: Creamed, containing a small amount of fresh dairy cream, and dry. Either type is available as large curd or small curd, determined by the size into which the curd is cut before it is cooked.

Because of its adaptability to a wide variety of uses, cottage cheese is one of the most frequently used dairy products. It is employed in appetizers, casseroles and main dishes, cheese cakes, sandwich fillings and, of course, all sorts of salads.

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special)—Mayor Orvin Angst has vetoed sidewalk, curb and gutter work on McKinley Street from St. Joseph's Avenue to Maple Street because he said it would cost too much.

Some Rose Show Reflections

The large number of visitors who passed through the Winona National and Savings Bank last Saturday afternoon and evening to view the rose show held by the Winona Rose Society were treated to a beautiful display of these popular flowers. The more than 450 entries comprised both specimen blooms and arrangements.

The specimen blooms were many and varied and ranged from white through all the colors and the hybrid teas, floribundas and grandifloras predominated as usual, there were representatives of other types such as climbers, rugosa hybrids, shrub roses and even miniatures.

We especially noted that many of the newest introductions were exhibited, indicating that rose growers of the area are keeping up with the late creations and are testing them out in their own gardens. This is good, since progress in plant breeding forces ahead steadily and some superior varieties are always being developed. Yet, among the many thousands of new roses that are developed each year by the specialists, only a relative few of them stand the test of time.

HOWEVER, SOME of the All-America Selections of years back were up among the top winners. Among these were the hybrid teas such as Peace, Nocturne, Sutter's Gold and Charlotte Armstrong, and such floribundas as Vogue, Circus and Fashion, some dating as far back as 1911. And Crimson Glory the highest rated red rose and one of the older ones of the modern roses was on hand as was Felipe a medium yellow.

It was pleasing to see so many entries in the Novice Division, a section set aside for those rose growers who had never won a ribbon or other award in any show. Some of these specimen blooms ranked with the best in the show. The ribbon winners in this classification will, of course, graduate into the amateur class at next year's show, but their places will be filled by other novice exhibitors.

THE ARRANGEMENT division under the theme "Roses in Winona Homes" was a well filled section and displayed diversity, ingenuity and artistry in the use of materials. Many of them were outstanding denoting a subtle touch in composition and design. However, we believe that some of the arrangements could have shown more artistry in the use of other flowers and foliage in combination with the roses.

It was a wonderful show and as one of the judges remarked, "superior to many shows he had seen in cities much larger than Winona." The judges were especially pleased with the generally fine condition of the specimen blooms indicating the care used by the exhibitors in the cutting and handling of the entries. They have a very high regard for well conditioned flowers in the show room, in fact it is essential.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacques Sarlie, financier and art collector, was accused of a $754,000 stock order unpaid.

The Dutch-born Sarlie, 47, was sued in State Supreme Court Thursday by the brokerage firm of McDonnell and Co., Inc. The firm contended Sarlie fled to Paris June 9 or 10 to defraud creditors and to avoid payment for stock purchased during an attempt to gain control of Celotex Corp.

Gilbert, who flew to Brazil June 13, had been buying up Celotex stock and seeking a merger of Celotex with E. L. Bruce Co., the wood flooring concern of which he was president and a director. Gilbert faces claims arising from his admitted unauthorized withdrawal of $1,953,000 from E. L. Bruce.

Sarlie, who came to America in 1940, amassed a personal fortune and, in 1960, collected $1,200,000 from a London auction of 51 of his paintings, most of them Picassos. He said at the time he would use the money to encourage the arts.

The court complaint against Sarlie stated that he ordered 17,800 shares of E. L. Bruce stock and 11,700 shares of Celotex between May 31 and June 8. On May 28 the stock market suffered one of its sharpest declines since 1929.

John E. Hoffman, attorney for McDonnell and Co., said in court he believed that Sarlie was an associate of Edward M. Gilbert in trying to acquire control of the Celotex Corp.

Sarlie, after serving three years in the U.S. Army in the 1940s, formed a shipping firm with a partner, Herbert Klotz, that bought up surplus military vessels and converted them to cargo ships. The ships were sold abroad at good profits.

Sarlie, although the son of a wealthy diamond merchant in Holland, built his own fortune. He started in stocks by purchasing Loft, Inc., stock at one dollar a share and selling it later at $16 a share. The company now is part of Pepsi-Cola.

CHICAGO (AP)—Ridan, still in the running for top 3-year-old honors of 1962, will be an overwhelming favorite in Saturday's $50,000 added Warren Wright Handicap at Arlington Park.

Eleven thoroughbreds have been nominated for the 1 1/4 mile test for 3-year-olds, but Ridan could come up to a 1-10 choice, confronting the track management with a minus pool for show betting and even perhaps for place wagers.

Ridan, to be ridden by Manuel Yezza, will get his stoutest competition most likely from T. Alie Grissom's Gushing Wind; Fourth Estate Stable's Times Roman; and Park Deere Stable's Summer Savory.

Schmidt's rolled to its second straight win in the Goodview Major League Thursday by edging Home Furniture 7-6, spilling the latter's debut.

Bob Foster and Don Hazelton each had three hits in four trips for the winners. Tom Becker hit a double.

GREEN BAY, Wis., (AP)—Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi today announced the signing of veteran tackle Forrest Gregg, Norm Masters and Bob Skoronski, whose fierce offensive blocking helped power the Packers to the 1961 National Football League championship.

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP) — A misunderstanding between a passenger and stewardess led to the delay here of a North Central Airlines plane late Thursday while a futile search was made for a bomb aboard.

Albert D. Holt, 39, Toronto, an electrical engineer, boarded the plane here with some heavy gear, commented, "Don't think this is a bomb."

Stewardess Constance Corcoran, Franklin Park, Ill., misunderstood the remark and the search was started by airline employees. She said she thought Holt had said, "This is a bomb."

No Pay for Firemen

Wealthiest Town Has Volunteers

By FRANCIS STILLEY

SCARSDALE, N. Y. (AP) — Volunteer firemen still race to blazes in the nation's wealthiest community. Only one of four companies gets paid.

The community calls itself a village, though it has about 19,000 residents. Some houses were built before the American Revolution. There isn't a single major industry in the 6.3 square-mile area of tree-lined streets. Barking dogs annoy people just as they do everywhere, and sometimes bite high-toned tycoons.

Doctors, lawyers and businessmen run school and town boards on a non-partisan basis, and love to spend spare time doing it.

Teen-agers get into trouble running "drag races" with cars. Scarsdale is a residential suburb just north of New York, situated in heavily Republican Westchester County. Its residents are largely luminaries of business, law, the arts and other professions.

Sales Management magazine this week tabbed it the nation's wealthiest community, saying the average family income is $29,276 a year. The magazine estimated that 86.5 of its households have income over $10,000. Among its residents are 10 or 12 millionaires—or possibly more.

The announcement caused little surprise in Scarsdale. It had won the honor before.

But the people who occupy Scarsdale's mansions take pride in things other than money. For instance, schools—which the citizens like to call "our only industry."

Fifty per cent of the tax dollar is spent on education. Teachers earn more than the average, and nearly half of the teachers hold advanced degrees.

For the second successive year, the high school drama group is being sent to perform in European countries. Nearly 99 per cent of the high school graduates will go to college or take advanced studies.

NEW SEMINARY CAROLINA, Puerto Rico (AP) — A new Protestant Episcopal seminary, built to serve 11 Episcopal districts in the Caribbean area and dedicated this year, provides its three-year courses, chapel services and library materials in three languages—French, English and Spanish.

GIRLS LIKE UNIFORMS NEW YORK (AP)—Girls in Roman Catholic high schools overwhelmingly favor the wearing of school uniforms, Sister Marie Williams writes in the Catholic Educator. Her findings were based on studies in seven communities.

400 Compete Tonight in AAU Track

WALNUT, Calif. (AP)—Eight championships with several world records endangered, go on the line tonight as the National AAU track and field carnival starts a two-night run.

More than 400 athletes are gathered for this 74th annual meet and such world title claimants as Dallas Long, Frank Budd and Robert Hayes are scheduled to compete in the opening program.

The site is Mt. San Antonio College's Memorial Stadium, a 12,000-seat arena tucked away in the rolling San Jose hills near Los Angeles.

Meet director Hilmer Lodge listed no less than eight world records which he feels are in danger, including tonight's 100-yard dash, the 120-yard high hurdles, the shot put and broad jump.

Other final events tonight are the 440-yard hurdles, the javelin and the 6-mile run.

Dallas Long, who has a claim in for the world shot put mark at 65 feet, 10 1/2 inches, and Gary Gubner of New York, with a best of 64-11, dominate the event.

The 100 features Frank Budd, who holds the world time of 9.2; Hayes, who has tied 9.2; and Harry Jerome of Oregon, who hopes to improve his best of 9.3.

The 120-yard high hurdles might well be the top race of the evening. A veteran of 23, Hayes Jones, from Detroit, faces tough opposition from Jerry Tarr of Oregon. Tarr has a best mark of 13.3 this year.

Wright 7 Back In McAuliffe

PLAINFIELD, N.J. (AP)—The favorite Mickey Wright, found herself seven strokes back of the co-leaders in the J.E. McAuliffe Golf Tournament for women professionals today, after the first of our rounds.

Miss Wright, of Dallas, hardly justified her favorite role on the first day of play over the par 73 Plainfield Country Club course Thursday. The winner of the U.S. Women's Open three of the last four years took a 38-41-79.
